Defense minister: Azerbaijani army to prove its superiority over Armenia soon

The Azerbaijani army will soon prove its superiority over Armenia, Azerbaijani Defense Minister Zakir Hasanov said on November 9.

Hasanov attended a National Flag Day celebration in one of the military units on the frontline, the ministry reported.

Colonel-General Zakir Hasanov met with members of the Armed Forces serving in the trenches on the frontline and highlighted orders from President Ilham Aliyev.

"The army is being rapidly developed, thanks to President Aliyev's attention and care," he said. "Some achievements were made in this area. As a result of measures conducted on the frontline, a large number of the enemy was killed, and they were destroyed psychologically. The enthusiasm of our servicemen frightens Armenia. Azerbaijani servicemen are ready to expel Armenian forces from our territories. We have prepared all possibilities for this."

The minister also stressed the necessity to do everything possible "to hasten the day when the occupied territories will be released and the flag of Azerbaijan will fly there."

The development of the military is under special focus in Azerbaijan, a country in which twenty percent of its internationally recognized territory has been under Armenian occupation for over 20 years. Azerbaijan remains in a state of war with Armenia.

Thanks to the state's care, today the Azerbaijani Army, which consists of the Air Force, Air Defense Forces, the Navy, and Land Forces, is one of the strongest, most highly-disciplined armies in the world, and the leader in the region.

Azerbaijani Army to free occupied lands soon

Azerbaijan's Defense Minister Colonel-General Zakir Hasanov has stated that Azerbaijan's occupied territories will be liberated in the near future.

He made the remark at an opening ceremony of two residential buildings constructed for military officers, the defense ministry reported.

Hasanov said the Azerbaijani army will destroy the enemy and liberate the occupied lands.

Armenia occupied over 20 percent of Azerbaijan's internationally recognized territory, including Nagorno-Karabakh and seven adjacent regions, after laying territorial claims against its South Caucasus neighbor that had caused a lengthy war in the early 1990s.

He met with the military officers and their family members at the presentation ceremony of the serviced apartments' keys and congratulated the participants on behalf of the ministry leadership.

"You are aware of the high assessment given by the Supreme Commander to the activity of the armed forces. Make sure that you share the most part of this success. The military officers fulfilling combat mission within a short time fought for their homeland and proved to the enemy that Azerbaijani soldiers and weapons are much stronger and superior than the opposite side. Our enemies are already in panic and fear. We will continue this work. We will definitely destroy and force the enemy to withdraw from our lands and liberate the territories as soon as possible," Hasanov said.

Azerbaijani Army able to promptly liberate occupied territories

The Azerbaijani Army is in a state of combat readiness and is able to promptly liberate the occupied territories, Fattah Heydarov, a member of the Azerbaijani Parliament, the Chairman of the Council of Elders, told Trend on October 16.

"The Armenian Army is the smallest in the region. The fact that the Azerbaijani Army is the largest in the region is a kind of message to the world that we can liberate our occupied lands at any time. Unfortunately, international organizations turn a blind eye to the aggressive policy of Armenia. However, these organizations forget that there are people in Azerbaijan who want to return to their native lands, and their rights cannot be ignored," Heydarov noted.

Azerbaijan is in a state of war, the war is not over and the Armenian-Azerbaijani Nagorno-Karabakh conflict is not a frozen conflict, earlier said President Ilham Aliyev.

"We must and we will restore our territorial integrity. The Nagorno-Karabakh conflict must be resolved on the principles of international law. The territorial integrity of our country is no less important than the territorial integrity of any other country. The issue must be resolved within the framework of international law and the territorial integrity of Azerbaijan. We are strengthening our economy and building up our army. We will take the necessary action at any time," he noted.

Armenia continues the occupation in defiance of four UN Security Council resolutions calling for immediate and unconditional withdrawal of armed forces.

Armenia forced to involve civilians in protection of border villages

Armenia involves armed "druzhinniks" (local police aides) in protection of its border villages, the Azerbaijani Defense Ministry told Trend Oct.16.

The defense ministry went on to add that this fact is not new.

If earlier, Armenia used such tactics only in the occupied territories, today it is forced to attract civilians along with the army in order to protect its border villages, said the ministry.

"As we stated many times, Armenia continues deploying civilians to trenches due to the acute shortage of soldiers, chaos, fear, lack of discipline and an increase in desertions," said the ministry.

The ministry went on to add that on the contrary, Azerbaijani armed forces with high morale and fighting spirit continue taking necessary measures to prevent all provocations of the enemy and inflict devastating retaliatory blows.

The conflict between the two South Caucasus countries began in 1988 when Armenia made territorial claims against Azerbaijan. As a result of the ensuing war, in 1992 Armenian armed forces occupied 20 percent of Azerbaijan, including the Nagorno-Karabakh region and seven surrounding districts.

Azerbaijan's Defense Minister, Colonel-General Zakir Hasanov has stated that if talks on the peaceful settlement of the Armenian-Azerbaijani Nagorno-Karabakh conflict fail, Azerbaijan will liberate its lands by force.

"For more than 20 years, our lands have been under occupation, and peace talks have not produced any results. The enemy must unequivocally understand that we will never reconcile with the occupation of our lands," Hasanov said.

The Azerbaijani government's strength is increasing day by day with constantly taken good care of its army, according to the minister.

During the meeting, Hasanov thanked the personnel of the armed forces, called up from the reserve for their readiness to defend the homeland and for responsible participation in the training exercises.

"The main purpose of the call for the military men in the reserve to join the exercises was to test the level of their combat readiness. [...] All of us should be ready for battle," Hasanov said.

Azerbaijan's military build-up is in line with the country's legal right to liberate its occupied lands by means of war, should it be necessary. [...]

Azerbaijani Defense Minister: "We'll destroy 70% of enemy in the first attack"

Defense Minister, Colonel General Zakir Hasanov and top officials of the ministry have visited the military units in the regions on the frontline. [...]

Speaking about the situation on the frontline, the minister said the enemy is in the panic: "We strike such blows to them that they are afraid. They don't want to serve on the frontline and leave the trenches. They are obliged to deploy the civilians to the posts. We must withdraw the invaders from our lands. We are able to do that and will do.

Supreme Commander in Chief does his best to strengthen the army. Our nation is hero, we have brave sons and we must liberate our lands fighting more bravely and courageous. That day is already close to us. Our Armed Forces become stronger day by day, new weapons and equipment are purchased.

I'm clearly saying that we'll destroy 70% of enemy in the first attack. We have many weapons and equipments that if we strike blow to Armenia they will not be able to revive for hundreds of years. Armenians must understand it and leave our lands voluntarily.

Every serviceman of Armed Forces must destroy enemy by seizing any occasion day and night. The enemy must not be convenient, live under fear in our occupied territories. Our lands must be liberated, revenge of our martyrs must be taken.

Now the time has come. We'll liberate our lands in a short run. [...]

The President said that we'll return to our historical lands. We'll return to Irevan, Zangazur, Shusha, Khankendi. This will absolutely happen and there can be no doubt [...]."

Aliyev Again Vows Return Of 'Historic Azeri Lands' in Armenia

President Ilham Aliyev again declared on Thursday that Azerbaijan will eventually gain control over not only Nagorno-Karabakh but also Yerevan and other "historic Azerbaijani lands" in Armenia.

"The Armenian-Azerbaijani Nagorno-Karabakh conflict must be settled only within the framework of Azerbaijan's internationally recognized territorial integrity," Aliyev said in a speech delivered during celebrations of Nowruz [...].

"After that we will return to our ancient lands -- to Yerevan, Geychay and Zangezur," he said. "These are our historic lands. The young generation must know that our lands are not confined to the territory of modern-day Azerbaijan."

"We must and we will return to those lands. Therefore we must work hard every day to bring that day closer," he added [...].

Aliyev has repeatedly made such public statements in the past, most recently during a March 2014 trip to Azerbaijan's second largest city of Gyanja. He said there that Armenia is a "fascist state" created on "historic Azerbaijani lands" that will eventually be won back by Azerbaijan.

Zakir Hasanov: Azerbaijani state obliged to resolve conflict by military means

"Having suffered heavy losses, the enemy understood that Azerbaijan has a real military power"

Baku. Hafiz Heydarov – APA. Next graduation ceremony for the young officers, who have successfully completed the Reserve Officer course and given the military rank of lieutenant under the order of the defense minister, has been held today at the Military Education and Training Center of the Armed Forces. [...]

The minister noted that every single serviceman must comprehend the motto “Serving our homeland, people and state is the meaning of our life”, live with this ambition and serve with honesty. The minister mentioned 20 percent of our lands have been under occupation since years ago, stressing that the main responsibility for the resolution of this problem is upon the Armed Forces’ personnel: “Our country has for years spared no efforts to resolve the Armenian-Azerbaijani conflict of Nagorno-Karabakh. Unfortunately, with their double standards, officials of some influential states and international organizations turn a blind eye to the occupation of our lands, recognized within the international law, instead of exerting pressure on Armenia. In this case, Azerbaijan is obliged to resolve the conflict by military means and liberate its lands from occupation by using military force”.

Recalling the tense situation on the front line in July-August of this year, Hasanov noted that the reforms carried out by the country’s leadership on military buildup have irritated Azerbaijan’s enemies.

“Such events have once again proved that our army has necessary military power. Having suffered heavy losses, the enemy understood that Azerbaijan has a real military power,” he said.

Addressing the young officers, the minister noted that every Azerbaijani officer should be an example for his military staff.

“Your main duty is to bring up the soldier in your obedience in the spirit of devotion to the country and state. You should use all effective tools in the preparation of patriot warriors, providing them with high fighting spirit. Do not forget that it’s the soldiers that control the most modern equipment and weapons. So our soldiers should be raised in a spirit of high moral values,” he added.

Twitter statements coming from the official twitter channel of the President of the Republic of Azerbaijan

As a result of attacks launched by Armenian occupying forces, our army suffered losses. Several servicemen have become martyrs.

May Allah rest their souls in peace! However, their blood has been avenged. The Azerbaijani army has dealt a very severe blow to the enemy.

Of course, our army is capable of fulfilling any task. Relevant instructions have been issued to the military, so that Azerbaijan could restore its territorial integrity soon.

Our territorial integrity will be restored. There are several factors that enable this conclusion. Azerbaijan is getting stronger.

Nagorno-Karabakh, the occupied territories are our native lands.

From the perspective of international law, Nagorno-Karabakh is an integral part of Azerbaijan.

Nagorno-Karabakh, the occupied territories are our native lands.

The whole world recognizes Nagorno-Karabakh as an integral part of Azerbaijan and will never recognize the self-styled Nagorno-Karabakh as an independent entity. The Azerbaijani state will never tolerate a second Armenian state on its territory.

After returning to the currently occupied territories, we will restore all our cities and villages.

Azerbaijani citizens are not pleased with the activity of mediators because the main mission of mediators is to settle the conflict, not to keep it in a frozen state and conduct confidence building measures.

The biggest confidence building measure would be the withdrawal of occupying forces from our lands.

The Azerbaijani army is showing its strength, which is having an impact on the talks. The enemy is clearly seeing that it can't cope with us.

(...)

We are not living in peace, we are living in a state of war. Everyone must know this.

The war is not over. Only the first stage of it is. But the second stage may start too.

No-one can rule that out. We don't want war, we want peace. But at the same time, we want our lands back.

Armenia wants to preserve the status quo. The main wish and essence in the activities of mediators is to prevent a resumption of war.

We don't want war either. But unlike them, we want our lands back. We want the lands of our ancestors back.

Justice and international law support our position. Therefore, the situation of neither peace nor war cannot last any longer.

The biggest problem we are faced with now is the problem of Karabakh. All our efforts are focused on that.

Armenian patrons, the circles supporting them the most, foreign circles, including the Armenian lobby, should understand that Armenia can get into serious trouble. If it doesn't observe its commitments, fails to execute the decisions of international organizations and does not vacate our lands, they will get into serious trouble.

Our positions are durable and strong, and the Azerbaijani army has established full dominance on the line of contact.

The material and technical infrastructure of the Azerbaijani army is at the highest level.

The weaponry and ammunition we have acquired in recent years suggest that we can accomplish any task.

Today, stability in the region is provided only thanks to the policy of the Azerbaijani state. Azerbaijan is a stabilizing country.

Today, by increasing our capabilities, we have an even stronger army which is capable of fulfilling any task at any time.

The enemy is in a state of panic and hysteria. We have sufficient opportunities to know what is happening on the other side.

We have completely taken over military and moral advantage. We are on our own land.

We will restore our sovereignty. The flag of Azerbaijan will fly in all the occupied territories, including Shusha and Khankandi.

This is our goal. We are moving towards this goal and should create an even stronger army to reach it.

We will restore our territorial integrity either by peaceful or military means. We are ready for both options.

The picture observed on the contact line during the last week and before that suggests that we are ready for any scenario.

Just as we have beaten the Armenians on the political and economic fronts, we are able to defeat them on the battlefield.

We have a powerful military potential. But our biggest strength is the courage and patriotism of our soldiers.

We will restore all of the occupied and destroyed cities. We will return to this land, we live and will live with this idea.

Azerbaijani Defense Minister: “We can destroy any military facility and residential settlement in Armenia”

Azerbaijani Defense Minister, Colonel General Zakir Hasanov commented on recent incidents on the contact line, APA reports.

The Minister said in his interview with Azerbaijan newspaper that today Azerbaijan is in a state of war with Armenia and though more than 20 years passed since the ceasefire was declared, the Armenian side, violating the international laws, keeps our territories under its occupation, is continuously violating the ceasefire and its reconnaissance and sabotage groups are trying to attack our posts on the frontline. “The enemy snipers are firing at our military servicemen, civilians and damaging our facilities and agricultural areas. We should respond to the enemy in the same way and we are doing it. I want you to be absolutely sure that our armed units immediately respond to them and the enemy suffers losses. Our soldiers and officers immediately take and will further take revenge of their killed fellow soldiers”, he said.

The Minister said along with the constant violation of ceasefire on the contact line of troops, Armenian armed units are firing on the border regions, villages and settlements of Azerbaijan, wounding and killing civilians: “We are very concerned about it. They are mainly firing on the Azerbaijani residential settlements in Gazakh, Aghstafa, Tovuz, Gadabay and Dashkasan regions from their posts located in Ijevan, Noyemberyan, Berd and Krasnoselsk regions of Armenia. The enemy aims to expand the occupied zone and demonstrates its aggressive appearance. However, international organizations remain silent. We can also act as Armenia, destroy any military facility and residential settlement in this country. We have all the opportunities for doing it. However, the principles of humanity and our people’s higher feelings of humanity keep us from doing it. What is the fault of civilians, children, women and old people?[...] ”

Ilham Aliyev: Azerbaijan will restore its territorial integrity and sovereignty

"The military budget and readiness will play a main role in the settlement of Nagorno Karabakh conflict".

"Azerbaijan's foreign policy is independent. It relies on the national interests of the Azerbaijani people. We are defending our national interests with honor and successfully. I can say that today the influence of Azerbaijan on regional processes increases. Azerbaijan frequently becomes the initiator of international projects," said Azerbaijani President Ilham Aliyev addressing at nationwide festivities on occasion of Novruz holiday of Azerbaijani people. [...]

"I am absolutely convinced that the growing power of Azerbaijan, our potential and forethought foreign policy will allow us to restore our territorial integrity. No other way. The course of history, our demographic development, economic potential allow us to say that the day when the national flag of Azerbaijan will flutter in Shusha, Khankendi is not far away. We need to become even stronger to do this. In the international arena, there are double standards. We are also victims of double standards. In the settlement of international relations the power factor is coming to the foreground. We must become and are becoming even stronger, " - said President Ilham Aliyev.

Azerbaijani President: "The present Armenia is, in fact, the historical land of Azerbaijan"

"Over the past decade, some 170,000 immigrants were settled in the new house. But there are still people living in difficult conditions. So, of course, the construction work will continue in the future", - Azerbaijani President Ilham Aliyev said during acquaintance with the new residential area, built in Ganja for 1500 IDP's families, on January 21, APA reports. [...]

President Ilham Aliyev expressed confidence that the day will come: "We all tried, and will try to bring that day. Azerbaijan is strengthening, increasing power, economic and military potential of the country, the population increases. In the past year were born more than 170 thousand children in Azerbaijan. That is, the natural increase for the year amounted to 120 thousand people, over time, will increase even more. Now has a population of 9 million 500 thousand people, it will increase even more. Demography, economy, military power will play an important role in solving the Karabakh problem." [...]

Azerbaijani President: "Azerbaijan will never allow the establishment of the second fictitious Armenian state on its historical territory"

"Unfortunately, there is no any progress in the fundamental issue of our foreign policy - the Armenian- Azerbaijani Nagorno- Karabakh conflict. During the year, the Armenian side is re-chose delaying tactics negotiation process under various pretexts", - Azerbaijani President Ilham Aliyev said it at the meeting of the Cabinet of Ministers to discuss results of the Azerbaijan's socio-economic development in 2013 and outline tasks for 2014. [...]

The head of state said that Azerbaijan will never allow that on his historic land creation of a second Armenian state: "The question should be and will be resolved within the territorial integrity of Azerbaijan. I do not doubt it, and to achieve this we are going to continue to negotiate, but we will increase and its power." [...]

"Sometimes the structure is not related to this issue or policy; bring grist to the mill of Armenia, trying to criticize us, they say, why Azerbaijan increases its military budget. And they say they are representatives of the country's military budget reached the heavens. It is our natural right; we raise and will improve its military capabilities. Our military power play a crucial role in a just settlement of the Nagorno -Karabakh conflict in accordance with international standards. Today we create a powerful army. Our army is one of the strongest in the world. Of course, the construction of the army will continue", - said the president.

Speech by Ilham Aliyev at the reception to mark the 20th anniversary of the establishment of the "Yeni Azerbaijan Party"

[...] "The gap between Armenia and Azerbaijan is already very large and keeps expanding day by day. Azerbaijan grows stronger and more powerful by the year, while Armenia weakens and declines every year. Evidence of this is the mass exodus of people from Armenia to other countries.

We will continue our efforts to isolate Armenia. This policy is working. We see its results. We will continue to expose Armenia's aggressive policy in all international organizations. The number of our friends in the world is growing. A growing number of countries want to cooperate with us. We have started to invest in various areas in foreign countries. This is a new process. We will step it up. Thus, our political and economic relations with all countries of the world will become even stronger in the future. Three countries have already officially recognized the Khojaly genocide as an act of genocide. This process has already begun and will be continued. We must ensure that as many countries as possible recognize Khojaly as an act of genocide. So from a medium- and long-term perspective, the restoration of Azerbaijan's territorial integrity is beyond doubt. Neither we nor the mediators involved in the matter have any doubts about that. That is why we believe that international mediators have been more active in addressing the issue lately. Everyone knows that the growing political, economic and military power of Azerbaijan will lead to a complete resolution of the issue in favor of Azerbaijan." [...]

Armenian fascism must receive due assessment – Ilham Aliyev

"[...] Unfortunately, the norms of international law are not working. The resolutions of international organizations remain on paper, injustice continues. In such a case, certainly, the growing Azerbaijani state must rely and relies only on its power like it is reflected in the final exposition of this memorial complex. 95 years ago as a result of the activity of the Caucasus Islamic army and the fights carried here with local forces, Baku was cleared of Armenians. If the norms of international law are not restored and Armenia continues its aggressive policy, our army will have a final say. Today we have a power to do this." [...]

That is, all these factors confirm our strength and are the result of the thorough policy. By its actions and statements Armenia openly admits that it is unable to ensure its security. We have known this long before. I think that all parties dealing with the Armenian-Azerbaijani Nagorno Karabakh conflict know this. But today Armenia is obliged to admit it. It has to admit its helplessness, its powerlessness against us, the fear it lives with. I have once said that Armenian people should not fear us, they should fear their leadership. They should fear the blood-thirsty, predatory, bandit and criminal leadership, which commits atrocities against their own people, fires at their own people. The longer the current leadership of Armenia is at power, the sooner Armenia will collapse and the sooner the historical justice will be restored. I am absolutely convinced that Azerbaijan will restore its territorial integrity. This is proven by all factors-ratio of forces, international, economic and military factors. But time goes on. We merely want this to occur as soon as possible. But this must take place comprehensively and fully. The territorial integrity of Azerbaijan must be restored in full, the state flag of Azerbaijan must be raised in Shusha and Khankandi and in the future Azerbaijanis must live on all of their historical lands. Our historical lands are the Iravan khanate, Goycha, Zangezur mahals. One day we will also live there. I believe in it and I am sure of it. In order to reach this, each of us must take efforts, each of us must make this holy day closer with his deeds. [...]

Ilham Aliyev chaired a meeting of the Cabinet of Ministers dedicated to the results of socioeconomic development in the first six months of 2013 and future objectives

A meeting of the Cabinet of Ministers dedicated to the results of socioeconomic development in the first six months of 2013 and future objectives has been held under the chairmanship of President Ilham Aliyev.

The head of state made opening speech at the meeting.

Opening speech of President Ilham Aliyev

" [...] I want to mention another important event of the last quarter – the military parade held in Azerbaijan. This parade demonstrated the power of the Azerbaijani army. The weaponry, ammunition and equipment demonstrated during the parade are the latest models and the most powerful hardware. The helicopters, tanks, armored vehicles, artillery units, air defense installations, other hardware have shown again that the Azerbaijan has one of the strongest armies in the world. At the same time, the military parade was a report on the work done in the field of army building in recent years. Of course, I am aware that the Azerbaijani people watched this parade with great interest and a sense of pride from the fact that we have such strong capabilities and such a strong army. At the same time, the parade has caused great concern in Armenia. I know that the hysteria, panic and fear they have experienced after the parade have not let up until now. And this is natural because the enemy saw firsthand the power of Azerbaijan and learned once again that we are ready for any scenario. With the aid of the acquired machinery we can destroy any enemy. As I said at the parade, we can speak to the enemy in any language. Along with all the political and diplomatic efforts, our military power will play a key role in resolving the Nagorno-Karabakh issue.

We will continue to build up our military strength and to buy the most modern equipment. As you know, there are no problems with the acquisition of this equipment. We buy equipment from different countries and at the same time produce it in Azerbaijan. A growing number of countries want to cooperate with us in the military sphere. The media have been providing figures that Azerbaijan has purchased weaponry worth $1 billion from some countries and $1.6 billion from others. I can say that these figures do not reflect reality. In fact, our military and technical cooperation is measured by much bigger figures.

We simply do not reveal the figures. We only comment on the information which appears in foreign media from time to time. But we can disclose the entire information because our state budget is transparent and all our costs are open.

I think that the Armenian people should not be afraid of that. The Armenian people should be afraid of their own leaders. They should be wary of their activities. They should be afraid of the bloodthirsty, insatiable and criminal government mired in corruption that has plunged them into the current situation. As a result of the activities of this government, about 100,000 Armenians leave the country forever. If it goes on like this, in five to six years there will be less than one million people there. And the blame for this falls squarely on the leadership of Armenia because its predatory and occupying policies, its bloodthirsty and voracious nature have brought Armenia to this catastrophe. We are confidently going forward. We are a strong state. Our strength will gradually increase. For this strength to grow further, we have to work even harder”.

Strong Azerbaijan can speak any language with powerless Armenia - Ilham Aliyev

A ceremonial military parade on occasion of the 95th anniversary of the Armed Forces of Azerbaijan was held on the Azadlyg square in Baku on 26 June.

The speech of the President of Azerbaijan, Supreme Commander Ilham Aliyev:

“ [...] Nagorno-Karabakh is a historical, native Azerbaijani land. Our people have lived and worked in these lands forever. Today, Nagorno-Karabakh is part of Azerbaijan, the international community recognizes and supports the territorial integrity of our country. Present-day Armenia has also been created on the historical Azerbaijani lands. The Erivan khanate, Goycha, Zangezour mahals are our historical lands. Azerbaijani state and people of Azerbaijan will never allow the creation of the second Armenian state on our territory. We will seek the speedy resolution of the matter. The settlement, of course, goes through political ways. The negotiation process is still ongoing. However, our strong military and strong capacity are strengthening our position. Our position is based on the historical justice. I want to say once again that Nagorno-Karabakh is an Azerbaijani land and will remain Azerbaijani land. Our position is supported by the international law. There are four UN Security Council resolutions that demand the unconditional withdrawal of Armenian occupying forces from the occupied lands.

Our position is supported by a strong army. Much attention has been given over the past years to army building to this end. Our army is growing. This is a continuous process. I often visit the military units, familiarize with the situation and see that the combat capability of our army is growing. We have a regular army. The professionalism of our army is growing. The patriotic spirit of the army, like elsewhere in the country, is also on a high level. The vast majority of officers in the army are young people. I am very pleased that the Azerbaijani youth is brought up in the spirit of patriotism. [...]

Azerbaijan has allocated huge funds into military over the past years. For comparison, I can say that in 2003 our military budget was $ 163 million, last year the figure reached 3.6 billion, and this year it is $ 3.7 billion. This shows that army building is a priority issue. The biggest expense of our budget goes to the army. And it's natural. In recent years, we have purchased the most modern equipment. In the 21st century, wars will be fought rather on the basis of technology and knowledge. This is a requirement of the time. Weapons purchased by Azerbaijan over the recent years are modern. This is the weapon of the high accuracy and a huge devastating force. Nearly a hundred combat and transport helicopters have been bought over the past years. Dozens of combat aircraft, the most advanced anti-aircraft installation have been bought as well. These armored vehicles, most modern tanks and artillery can destroy any enemy target. This process continues. [...]

I am sure that Azerbaijan will successfully carry out all its tasks. Today, we can say there is not a single outstanding issue, apart from the problem of Nagorno-Karabakh. There is a development, specific policies, programs, and excellent results in all areas. I am confident that we will achieve the desired in the settlement of the conflict, restore historical justice, return back to our native land! No other way! The development of the history, the course of history, the processes taking place in the world, strengthening Azerbaijan, and weakening impoverished Armenia are all the realities. These are the realities that we have created with our policies, our will. We will continue to isolate Armenia from all international and regional projects. We will continue to strengthen Azerbaijan. Our strong state will have a say in resolving the conflict, and the Azerbaijani army will fulfill the order of the Supreme Commander.

Long live the Azerbaijan army! “

Azerbaijan never ruled out military settlement of Karabakh conflict – President

[...] "Azerbaijan is willing to settle the conflict peacefully. However, for us it is important that the issue is settled. Unlike us, Armenia is not interested in settling", said the head of state, noting that the mediators, are, unfortunately, engaged in actions to increase confidence between the parties.

"The co-chairs seek to stabilize the situation at the contact line, and various other matters not related to the problem. This situation is unacceptable and inadmissible. It needs changes", said the President of Azerbaijan, stressing that negotiations should be carried out in fact. "But the point is to ensure the territorial integrity of Azerbaijan, recognized by the international community. The occupying forces must withdraw from the territories of Azerbaijan ", the head of state said.

"As for the future of the people living today in Nagorno-Karabakh, as well as citizens who will return to the region after the settlement, there is a positive international experience, including in Europe. The principle of self-governance can be used without going beyond this practice", said the President of Azerbaijan, stressing that Nagorno-Karabakh is and will be the native land of Azerbaijan.

The Head of State reiterated that there can be no concessions on the territorial issue.

"In fact, the choice is not great in the Armenian-Azerbaijani conflict, it will be either peaceful or military. We are ready for both options", the President continued, noting that Azerbaijan has never ruled out a military settlement of the Nagorno-Karabakh conflict.

The Head of State added that the international law and the UN Charter give Azerbaijan the right for self-defence. And Baku may carry out any operations on the territory recognized by the international community as an integral part of Azerbaijan any time.

"We remain committed to the peaceful resolution of the conflict so far. I believe that the opportunities in this area have not yet run out. We need to do more to resolve the conflict", the head of the Azerbaijani state said, noting that Azerbaijan should become even stronger.

According to him, Azerbaijan should continue to seek to isolate Armenia from international projects.

"This strategy and policy are already producing effect. From 80 to 100 thousand people leave Armenia every year, in line with its official statistics. The process of depopulation is widening in the country. There is a demographic crisis, and this crisis will deepen", President Ilham Aliyev said.

According to him, the less is the able-bodied population in the country, the lower the chance for growth is. However, he noted that the outlook for economic growth in Armenia is vague, as this state is stagnating.

"We must and will isolate Armenia. We will also do everything possible to improve our potential, including in military", the president said, noting that today the Azerbaijani army is the strongest in the South Caucasus".

'Armenia is a gray spot on the map of the South Caucasus'

Armenia is a gray spot on the map of the South Caucasus.

It is "cancer" of the region through which the illegal traffic of arms and drugs go, chief of the political analysis and information provision department of the Azerbaijani Presidential Administration Elnur Aslanov has said at an international forum of research centres of the Organization of the Black Sea Economic Cooperation (BSEC).

According to the representative of the Presidential Administration of Azerbaijan, difficult situation, in which the country's population is, annually causes up to 100,000 Armenians to leave it forever, 1news.az reports.

According to him, unlike Armenia, Azerbaijan, whose economy is 75% of the total economy of the South Caucasus, is developing rapidly.

"Our country, whose population is 65% of the total population of the South Caucasus, has become a major transport route linking the West with the East," said Aslanov, noting that the main problem of the republic is the Armenian-Azerbaijani Nagorno-Karabakh conflict.

"Unfortunately, for more than 20 years, a fifth of Azerbaijan's territory is occupied. The provisions of the four UN resolutions are not fulfilled," said the head of the department.

He noted that the hope for a peaceful settlement of the conflict still remains.

"However, in the event of failure of peace talks, Azerbaijan will use other tools to liberate the occupied territories," said Aslanov, pointing out that at present the country's military budget is equal to the entire state budget of Armenia.

Finally Aslanov drew attention to the fact that the geo-strategic importance of the South Caucasus is growing from the viewpoint of politics, energy and transportation.

Every year Azerbaijan becomes stronger and Armenia - even weaker – President

On 14 April, under the chairmanship of Azerbaijani President Ilham Aliyev, the Cabinet of Ministers held a meeting on the results of socio-economic development in the first quarter of 2013 and the upcoming challenges. [...]

A few days ago at the forum of MGIMO, I reiterated the official position of Azerbaijan on the Armenian-Azerbaijani Nagorno-Karabakh conflict. I want to say once again that the internationally recognized territorial integrity of Azerbaijan is not, never was and never will be the subject of negotiations. We will never allow creating in the Azerbaijani lands the second far-fetched Armenian state and will endeavour, by all possible means, to resolve this conflict in the near future. This conflict should be resolved on the basis of international law, the four UN Security Council resolutions should be implemented unconditionally, and the occupying forces must withdraw from our land.

Along with this, we must continue to build up our strength - political, economic and military. This is our sovereign right. Once again I want to say have no doubt that Azerbaijan will restore its territorial integrity. Every day, every month brings our victory closer. Every month, every year Azerbaijan is becoming stronger, and Armenia - even weaker. This is already seen and known by all the structures and countries involved. The course, the development of the story is that Armenia will not be able to compete with Azerbaijan. Its main hope is the external force, the Armenian lobby and its supporters, the political circles of some other countries. Our hope is our strength, the Azerbaijani people, the truth and justice, international law and our growing strength. I am sure that Azerbaijan will restore fairness and ensure its territorial integrity. [...]

Ilham Aliyev: Azerbaijan will restore its territorial integrity

A new quarter for 760 IDP families was commissioned in Masazir settlement of Absheron on 1 April.

1news.az reports citing the official website for the President of Azerbaijan that the opening ceremony was attended by President of Azerbaijan Ilham Aliyev. [...]

At the same time, the balance of power in the region has changed in our favor. Today, Azerbaijan is the fastest growing country in the world. Armenia experiences decline every year. Our population is growing – there are already 9.3 million people in Azerbaijan. And the population of Armenia, even according to official statistics, drops by almost 100,000 people a year. So when I say that I have every confidence that Azerbaijan will restore its territorial integrity, I rely on these factors. But at the same time, I and all of us really want the issue to be resolved quickly. We really want an immediate action to be taken to put an end to occupation. Unfortunately, the double standards and double approach existing in the world do not allow solving the problem. [...]

Armenia occupied our land by military means. Then, to eliminate the effects of the occupation the UN Security Council adopted four resolutions. None of them has ever been fulfilled. How come that they adopt a resolution on any other issue and start its immediate execution in a day and when it comes to us, the issue has not been settled for already 20 years and we just hear that the issue must be settled peacefully. Why? Because there are double standards. We have the full right and international law recognizes our ability to restore our territorial integrity by all means. The UN Charter has provisions that any country has the right to use every opportunity to defend itself. The Helsinki Final Act puts the principle of territorial integrity above any other principle, including the principle of self-determination of peoples. However, injustice, double standards, the Armenian lobby and its supporters in the world, as well as passive intermediaries do not create the necessary conditions for a solution. But, despite this, we'll continue our political and diplomatic efforts in this direction. We will further strengthen our activities in international organizations. At the same time, more serious steps will be taken in army building. We will use every opportunity to keep Armenia in the current isolation in economic and regional issues. I am confident that as a result of these complex measures and with the growing power of the country, we will restore our territorial integrity. ### Azerbaijani parliamentarian dissatisfied with OSCE MG's activity

Azerbaijan is not going to yield a piece of its land to anyone and is ready to liberate the occupied Azerbaijani land at the order of the Supreme Commander.

The statement came from head of the working group on interparliamentary ties Azerbaijan-Austria Javid Gurbanov at the meeting with the delegation of the Austrian parliament, headed by second president of the National Council of Austria Fritz Noygebauer.

"We do not fear anyone and are not going to surrender our lands. Armenia has been holding 20% of Azerbaijani lands under occupation for more than 20 years. We support the peaceful settlement of the conflict but if the negotiations are ineffective, we are ready to return the occupied Azerbaijani lands at the order of the supreme commander", he said.

According to Gurbanov, President of Azerbaijan Ilham Aliyev stands for the peaceful resolution of the Armenian-Azerbaijani conflict over Nagorno Karabakh and is ready to provide the high status of autonomy to Nagorno Karabakh within the framework of the territorial integrity of Azerbaijan.

"Armenians have already created their state-Armenia on historical Azerbaijani lands and we will not tolerate the creation of the second Armenian state in our territory", the head of the working group for interparliamentary ties Azerbaijan-Austria of Milli Majlis.

In turn, MP Eldar Ibrahimov expressed dissatisfaction with the activity of the OSCE Minsk Group under the auspices of which two years ago Azerbaijan and Armenia hold peace talks on the resolution of the Armenian-Azerbaijan over Nagorno Karabakh.

"We do not want to be at war with anyone, but we have to return our lands that have been holding neighbor Armenia under occupation for over 20 years. We are dissatisfied with the activity of the OSCE Minsk Group which sets the provision that the conflict parties must demonstrate the political will and find a solution to the conflict. But why do we need the mediators if we could settle the problem ourselves?", he said.

Azerbaijan leader unleashes anti-Armenia Twitter tirade

Azerbaijan's President Ilham Aliyev caused an Internet storm today after his official Twitter account posted a tirade of several dozen sharply worded statements against neighbouring Armenia. Most of the brief messages were recycled from a long speech Aliyev gave last week, but the sudden broadside of inflammatory tweets posted Tuesday afternoon prompted a top Armenian lawmaker to compare the messages with Nazi German propaganda.

"The Armenian lobby is our main enemy and we are the main enemy for them," said Aliyev's official Twitter account, @presidentaz.

"Armenia is a country of no value. It is actually a colony, an outpost run from abroad.... Evidence of this is the mass exodus of people from Armenia to other countries," another tweet read.

Energy-rich Muslim Azerbaijan has been in a bitter conflict with its land-locked Christian neighbour Armenia over the territory of Nagorny Karabakh for decades. The two fought a war in the 1990s that left about 30,000 people dead.

"Azerbaijan grows stronger and more powerful by the year, while Armenia weakens and declines every year," Aliyev said in a further tweet.

The tirade drew a furious reaction from Armenian parliament deputy chairman Eduard Sharmazanov, who called Aliyev a "totalitarian leader of a totalitarian state". "Aliyev shows by his cynical proclamations that there are still supporters of fascism in the 21st century, and that this ideology flourishes thanks to leaders like him," Sharmazanov told AFP. "His remarks recall the 1930s-1940s and (Nazi leader Adolf) Hitler," he added.

Aliyev succeeded his father Heydar as the leader of the former Soviet state in 2003 and has showcased the Caspian sea country as an important energy partner to the West despite human rights concerns.

He gave the 40-minute-long speech that inspired Tuesday's Twitter frenzy to his New Azerbaijan Party to mark the 20th anniversary of its establishment.

Reacting to the furore, senior Azerbaijan administration official Ali Gasanov did not attempt to soften the rhetoric, saying Aliyev had "laid out the facts and realities of modern day Armenia" in his speech.

"All of Armenia's resources are directed at supporting the separatist (Karabakh) regime on Azerbaijan's occupied territories," he said, calling Armenia a country with an agenda driven by outside forces.

Karabakh conflict settlement 'main direction in our foreign policy' – President

"I've broadly expressed my thoughts about the main directions of our foreign policy and there is no need to repeat them".

The statement came from President Ilham Aliyev who participated in a ceremonial event on the 20th anniversary of the Yeni Azerbaijan party that was organized at the Buta palace on 16 November.

The president also said "Simply I want to note that the resolution of the Nagorno Karabakh conflict is the main direction in our foreign policy. We will continue our efforts. I have to repeat that our position is very firm, it is based on international law, history, justice and our growing might. We are in process of talks and all the same we will continue strengthening our military might. Today the gap between Armenia and Azerbaijan is very big and it is growing every day. Azerbaijan is strengthening every year while Armenia is growing weaker. The obvious proof is the mass migration of people from Armenia to other countries. We will further take efforts to deepen Armenia's isolation. This policy is effective. We see the results. We will further expose the occupational policy of Armenia in all international organizations. The number of our friends in the world is growing. The number of countries that wish to cooperate with us is growing too. Today we have started investing in foreign countries in different directions. This is a new process. And we are going to strengthen this process. Thus, in the future the political and economic ties with all countries will grow even stronger". Touching upon the issue of Khojaly genocide, the president noted "Three countries have already recognized the Khojaly genocide as genocide on the official level. This process has already started and will continue. We must seek recognition of Khojaly genocide by a greater number of foreign countries. That is in terms of middle and long-term perspective, restoration of territorial integrity of Azerbaijan does not create doubts either in our country or among mediators, dealing with this issue. Therefore, we believe that the mediators demonstrate a bigger activeness in this issue recently, since everyone knows that the growing political, economic and military might of Azerbaijan will lead to the final resolution in favor of Azerbaijan. I have to repeat that we take part in the negotiation process. But along with this, we take all other measures and are ready to all other variants. I have to note that Azerbaijan has strong legal, historical and political grounds. I do not doubt that Azerbaijan will restore its territorial integrity. The settlement of this issue is possible on the basis of these principles".

Azerbaijani flag will be raised in Shusha and Khankandi - Ilham Aliyev

Nagorno Karabakh is the Azerbaijani land, it will remain an Azerbaijani land and the flag of Azerbaijan will be raised in Shusha and Khankandi.

According to the official website for the President of Azerbaijan, the statement came from President of Azerbaijan Ilham Aliyev during his speech while familiarizing with the conditions created at the Nushaba park in Barda on 7 October.

"I have no doubt that we will attain the solution of this issue and Azerbaijan will restore its territorial integrity. The reasons of my optimism is well known-the successful development of Azerbaijan. In every sphere including economy, resolution of social problems, military construction, strengthening of international positions of our country, that is today Azerbaijan and Armenia are incomparable", President Ilham Aliyev said.

According to the head of the state, today Azerbaijan is moving forward and Armenia is going backwards and degrading.

Noting that Nagorno Karabakh as an integral part of Azerbaijan must be within Azerbaijan, President Ilham Aliyev said that no other variant is being considered and we should strive to attain this variant.

"Probably, the negotiations will continue for some more time. I do not rule it out. But at the end of these talks we will return to these lands.

"I certainly want us to do this without bloodshed. However, we must be ready to any variant. Today we have not only strong economy but also strong army. The military potential and human potential, the feeling of patriotism", he noted.

'We will continue to isolate Armenia from international and regional projects'

The cause for Armenia's grave economic situation is Azerbaijan.

The statement came from President of Azerbaijan Ilham Aliyev, APA reports.

"The main problem for Azerbaijan is the occupation of our lands by Armenia. Our lands are under occupation as a result of the aggression, aggressive policy of Armenia against Azerbaijan."

The president noted that this issue cannot find its solution because of the support of patrons of Armenians in the world to them. "It's despite the fact that there are all opportunities and legal framework for the solution of the issue. International organizations have adopted decisions and resolutions. Leaders of the leading countries of the world have made statements that this current situation is unacceptable and the status quo must be changed. Unfortunately, Armenia remains indifferent to these calls, and international community does not exert the due pressure and effect on it. This is the cause for the insolvability of the issue. We will continue to strengthen our country and our international positions. Legal grounds for the solution are sufficiently enough, and these grounds defend and support Azerbaijan's position. The UN, its Security Council, OSCE, the Council of Europe, European Parliament and other international organizations have adopted decisions which are the only path for the settlement of the conflict."

The head of state stressed that the territorial integrity of Azerbaijan is recognized by all countries, and this issue can find its solution only within the territorial integrity of Azerbaijan.

"There is no change in Azerbaijan's position regarding this settlement of this issue. We will not back off the path that we have taken. Nagorno-Karabakh is an eternal and historical land of Azerbaijan. Azerbaijan must restore its territorial integrity. Occupiers must be and will be withdrawn from all the occupied lands. Azerbaijani citizens must and will return to their homelands. Our compatriots will return to the regions which are currently beyond administrative borders of former Nagorno-Karabakh Autonomous Province, and Nagorno-Karabakh, Khankandi and Shusha. I am convinced and believe in this, and there are enough factors to consolidate my conviction: International law, economic power of Azerbaijan, our military potential and increasing weigh of Azerbaijan in political arena. Only looking at the history of the last one year, we can see the successes of Azerbaijan.

We are a member of the respected international organization – the UN Security Council. We chaired this organization a couple of months ago. We entered this organization with the support of 155 countries. Recently, 120 member countries of the Non-Aligned Movement supported a resolution considering the settlement of the Nagorno-Karabakh issue within the territorial integrity of Azerbaijan. 120 countries is the majority of the world. We in many cases hear the notion of international arena, and some organizations, some structures mean themselves when they say international arena. International arena is not an object that unites 20 or 30 countries. International arena is the UN, and 155 countries in the UN supported us. International arena is the Non-Aligned Movement.

There operate 120 countries. They too supported us. That is, the international arena supports our position and of course, it gives us additional opportunities and increases our confidence. But at the same time, the Minsk Group has been created for 20 years to solve this issue, but it cannot. It cannot exert the due pressure on Armenia. We see that this issue can and must be solved at the expense of the power of Azerbaijan. Therefore, we must be more powerful. We must further strengthen our army and we do. At present the Azerbaijani Army is among mighty armies not on a regional, but on a global scale. We are advancing our country by strengthening our economic potential.

It enables us to conduct an independent policy on this issue. We make decisions based on national interests in foreign and domestic policy. Strong Azerbaijan is a strong regional factor, and a stabilizing factor. At the same time, it's already not possible not to account with Azerbaijan in regional issues. Attempts not to account with Azerbaijan brought no result and the recent history shows that. Therefore, the stronger we are, the sooner Azerbaijan will restore its territorial integrity. We have an unambiguous position regarding the solution of the issue. I have repeatedly stated my opinions on this. The aggressive forces must be removed from all the occupied lands, and after that peace and cooperation can emerge in the region and the source of danger can be removed. So far, our lands are under occupation. Our number one target is Armenia. We will continue to isolate Armenia from all international and regional projects. This policy is bearing fruits and the cause for Armenia's difficult economic situation is Azerbaijan. This is unambiguous. According to their own statistics, 80,000 people have fled Armenia in the first half of the year. By the end of the year, this figure will probably double. The Azerbaijan's population is increasing and after 5-10 years, in general, the correlation of percents will be one to ten, maybe even less. These factors should make them think. Their grave economic situation, demographic situation and isolation from international issues must make them worry.

Meanwhile, Azerbaijan is stepping forward. Despite the occupation of our lands, we make great achievements and we increase them. A couple of days ago, respected international economic structure – The Davos Economic Forum placed Azerbaijan 42nd for economic competitiveness, the first place in the CIS space. Our affair is the affair of justice. We want the restoration of justice and we will achieve it. For us, the number one issue in our foreign policy, on our agenda in general, is liberation of the occupied lands. We are working day and night, and we will continue this activity."

Azeri Defense Chief Again Threatens War With Armenians

Azerbaijan renewed threats to end the Nagorno-Karabakh conflict by force on Tuesday, with Defense Minister Safar Abiyev saying that the Armenian side is leaving Baku with no other option.

"Unwilling to peacefully return Azerbaijan's occupied lands, Armenia is every day bringing forward the start of a new war," Azerbaijani news agencies quoted Abiyev as telling General Myles Deering, the visiting commander of the Oklahoma National Guard.

Abiyev complained that long-running mediation efforts by the U.S., Russian and French co-chairs of the OSCE Minsk Group have not produced any "concrete results." In these circumstances, he said, Azerbaijan has no option but to "liberate the occupied territories."

Azerbaijani leaders have for years been threatening to forcibly regain control of Karabakh and Armenian-controlled lands surrounding it. The Armenian side has repeatedly condemned and dismissed those threats, saying that the Azerbaijani military would suffer another defeat.

The United States, the European Union and Russia have likewise spoken out against possible attempts at a military solution to the Armenian-Azerbaijani dispute.

U.S. Secretary of State Hillary Clinton warned of "unpredictable and disastrous consequences" of renewed fighting in the conflict zone when she visited Yerevan and Baku in June. "The use of force will not resolve the Nagorno-Karabakh conflict and therefore force must not be used," Clinton said

Deputy PM Ali Hasanov: "Azerbaijan prepares to liberate the occupied areas"

Baku – APA. "Azerbaijan prepares to liberate the occupied areas. We will not make any concessions to Armenia in liberation of the lands," Deputy Prime Minister, Chairman of the State Committee for Work with Refugees and IDPs Ali Hasanov told journalists, APA reports.

"If Armenia wakes and settles down to right course today, may be any agreement will be achieved in the negotiations. The state has respect for president's promise. If Armenia continues its non-constructive position, we will liberate our lands in near future by the order of the Supreme Commander-in-Chief. At present, the government started preparations for the next processes. It is return program, calculation of damage and another issue. We must ready for it."

Ilham Aliyev attended a ceremony at the Top Level Military School named after Heydar Aliyev dedicated to the 2012 graduation of special purpose military educational institutions

The main challenge facing us is the settlement of the Armenian-Azerbaijani conflict over Nagorno-Karabakh. As you know, the Azerbaijani government has been working in this direction for many years. But, unfortunately, the issue remains unresolved. As I noted earlier, the aggression and injustice committed against Azerbaijan in the early years of our independence are, unfortunately, still on the agenda. I am absolutely convinced, have repeatedly expressed my thoughts about it and want to say it again – if great Heydar Aliyev had been the leader of our country at decisive moments in our history, in the early years of our independence, not an inch of our land would have been given to the invaders. But in 1987, Soviet leaders removed Heydar Aliyev from political power. Less than two weeks after that, Armenian nationalists and their supporters began to make claims on the separation of Nagorno-Karabakh from Azerbaijan and its annexation to Armenia. In the last months of the Soviet Union, an expansionist policy against Azerbaijan began. In the first months of our independence this expansion led to great tragedies. The Khojaly genocide was perpetrated, Shusha, Lachin and Kalbajar were occupied.

We are currently building up our strength and taking part in negotiations. I am absolutely convinced that the stronger our army, the stronger our position in the negotiations. There is a direct connection between these two factors. We are demonstrating a principled stance in the talks. We will not step back from it. Besides, we have become much stronger in recent years. Several years ago there was a parity in military and economic terms between Armenia and Azerbaijan, now we have eliminated this parity. From an economic point of view, Azerbaijan is 10 times stronger than Armenia. Our state budget is 10 times bigger. Our military spending is 10 times higher. There is positive demographics in Azerbaijan. International law has been violated for 20 years. We must become even stronger. Our strength is the primary means of a fair settlement of the Armenian-Azerbaijani conflict over Nagorno-Karabakh.

Azerbaijan's candidacy was supported by 155 countries. Last month Azerbaijan presided over the Security Council for the first time in its history. I also want to note that our election to the Security Council was not easy at all. We earned this place in a tense struggle. We deserved it. We have demonstrated a principled position from the very first days, first months. Our position is based on international law and justice. I can also say that at the initial stage Armenia also wanted to become a member of this authoritative structure together with us and put forward its candidacy. But when it saw that it was powerless to Azerbaijan and that it would suffer a bitter defeat, it quietly withdrew from the political battlefield and recognized its political defeat. This was a very symbolic step. It is no secret that the international attention to Azerbaijan is at a very high level. I have no doubt that if the active phase of the war starts, Armenia will flee from the battlefield just as it did from the political arena. I am sure that the international community and the countries involved in the settlement of the Armenian-Azerbaijani conflict over Nagorno-Karabakh are increasingly aware that Armenia cannot resist Azerbaijan. We hope that there will come a time when sober-minded people are represented in the Armenian leadership who will realize that a further protraction of the conflict is to the detriment of Armenia. Armenia will not gain anything by marking time.

As solution delays, the balance of forces between Armenia and Azerbaijan changes in our favor. I want to repeat that 10 years ago there was a certain balance. Now this balance is gone. In the coming years Azerbaijan will only grow stronger because we know our prospects. We are creating our own future. I am sure that all the factors I mentioned – our political strength, economic development, military power, love of the country – will lead us to a solution of the issue, Azerbaijan will restore its territorial integrity and our flag will fly in Shusha, Khankandi, Nagorno-Karabakh.

Opening speech by Ilham Aliyev at the meeting of the Cabinet of Ministers of the Republic of Azerbaijan dedicated to the results of the socioeconomic development in the first quarter of 2012 and future goals,

[...] One covers economic issues, the other – security and political matters. Azerbaijan was represented at both. At both events I outlined the views, positions and policies of our country. In particular, I spoke about the Armenian-Azerbaijani conflict over Nagorno-Karabakh, the occupation of our lands and the suffering of one million of our countrymen, and drew the world's attention to these issues.

Cyber-warfare is waged against us. This is true. I am absolutely sure of this, this is beyond doubt. Particularly active in this war, of course, is the Armenian lobby. The attempts to discredit Azerbaijan, deny its realities, portray Azerbaijan in the world as a backward and undemocratic country are the dirty job of the Armenian lobby.

Their sphere of influence is quite broad. They are represented in the leading print media of various countries.

Sometimes they go under different names and conceal their origin. This is a secondary issue now. A person shouldn't conceal his nationality. Anyone should be proud of his nationality. But they are different even in this respect in other countries.

Sometimes they conduct open campaigns against Azerbaijan and try to harm our image in a coordinated manner. Their activities are straight forward, Azerbaijan is number one target for the Armenian lobby. For us too, I repeat, the Armenian lobby is number one enemy. We must be prepared for this fight.

The second session of the Euronest Parliamentary Assembly was also held in Baku in the first quarter. I can say that such a session has been held outside the European Union for the first time. Baku was not chosen as a venue by chance. The session was held at a very high level, it gave us the opportunity to inform members of the European parliament about the work ongoing in Azerbaijan, our position, in particular, on the history and realities of the Armenian-Azerbaijani conflict over Nagorno-Karabakh, the genocide against Azerbaijanis, the Armenian fascism. [Editor: euronest is specifically NOT about the frozen conflicts and President Aliyev's opening speech was shocking to many participants, also because he called Armenians "fascists", which he repeats here.] Those who perpetrated a bloody tragedy, an act of genocide in Khojaly are fascists, there is no other name for them. Taking the opportunity, I spoke about the realities and shared my thoughts on Azerbaijan's position and its general outlook for the future.[...]

At all international events I have spoken about the Armenian-Azerbaijani conflict over Nagorno-Karabakh and exposed Armenia's policy of aggression. I will continue to expose it at all international events. Our principled position on the settlement of the conflict remains unchanged. The territorial integrity of Azerbaijan must be restored unconditionally, the occupying forces must withdraw from our land. The internationally recognized territorial integrity of our country will be fully restored. I have no doubt about that. We are growing stronger both economically and internationally. Our military capacity is also growing. This area is and will always be in the focus. We are creating a powerful military industry. At the same time, we buy and will continue to buy large volumes of military equipment, weapons and ammunition. Not to mention anti-aircraft guns. We are and will be buying tanks, artillery units, combat aircraft, weaponry, all modern equipment needed for combat. I can say that, as in other areas, we are pursuing a diversified policy in this area too, we don't rely only on one producer. A growing number of countries want to cooperate with us and we have the opportunities for that. Unlike some other countries, we don't get anything for free, we buy everything, and this policy will be continued.

Azerbaijan already has a strong army. All the armed forces are ready and capable of fulfilling any task in the interests of our country. They are ready to restore Azerbaijan's sovereignty over Nagorno-Karabakh and other occupied lands. We simply want to do this without bloodshed, by peaceful means, through talks, and every minute and every day brings us closer to victory. Armenia is plunging into a deep recession, while Azerbaijan is growing stronger. Victory day is nearing us. The day will come when the Azerbaijani flag will fly in Khankandi and Shusha. [Editor: Khankandi is the Azeri name for Stepanakert, the capital of Nagorno-Karabakh. Note that none of the OSCE Minsk Group proposals foresee handing back the Armenian populated core of the former Soviet Oblast of Nagorno-Karabakh. The L'Aquila declaration foresees only the return of the unpopulated (formerly mostly Azeri populated) surrounding buffer zone. Saying that on victory day the Azerbaijani flag will fly in Khankandi contradicts ALL mediation efforts and is only possible through winning war.]

Closing Speech by Ilham Aliyev at the conference on the results of the third year into the "State Program on the socioeconomic development of districts for 2009-2013"

I am confident that all the issues provided in the state investment program for 2012 will be resolved. This year should also be successful for our country, in particular, we expect major development of the non-oil sector. [...]

The projects started earlier and the ongoing ones are bearing fruit. In 2012 we will also open large enterprises and factories. So our non-oil capacity will be further enhanced. I want to repeat that there are all the possibilities for the development of private enterprise. Business people and heads of executive authorities have provided information about the processes taking place in the region.

Our political influence and economic power are growing. This is seen by those who like us and those who don't. There are quite a lot of those who rejoice in our successes. But there are forces that don't like us, our detractors. They can be divided into several groups. First, our main enemies are Armenians of the world and the hypocritical and corrupt politicians under their control. The politicians who don't wish to see the truth and are engaged in denigrating Azerbaijan in different parts of the world. Members of some parliaments, certain political figures, etc. who live on the money of the Armenian lobby. We know them all. There is no need to name them. This is one group. Another group includes those who don't accept Azerbaijan's independent policies. In other words, they don't accept that Azerbaijan can pursue an independent policy. We do and we will pursue an independent policy. This policy, I want to repeat, serves the interests of the Azerbaijani people. It does not and never will serve the interests of anyone else. The interests of the Azerbaijani people are above anything else. We do and we will fight to protect these interests. The results and recent history show that we can succeed even alone.

The third group includes those who just envy us. The realities of Azerbaijan show that we are truly developing and achieving historic progress. Look what we have achieved in both political and economic spheres in recent years. I want to repeat that while the ratings of developed states are falling and some developed countries are on the verge of a default, Standard & Poor's has raised the credit rating of Azerbaijan. [...]

Azerbaijan will become even stronger, and the best answer to those who write about us, about our country, authors of those defamatory articles is our reality, our work and success. Azerbaijan is a dynamic country. Azerbaijan is a strong country. The number of our friends is increasing. But there will always be those who don't like us. But the fact that they are in our way can't make us abandon the chosen path. Our path is one of justice. Our path is one of righteousness, development and progress. We are and will be going along this path successfully. Thank you!

Azerbaijan again threatens war to retake Nagorno-Karabakh

Azerbaijan reiterated on Tuesday that it still has the possibility of armed action up its sleeve if current talks to settle its conflict with Armenia over the disputed Nagorno-Karabakh region prove fruitless. Talks Brokered by the Organization for Security and Co-operation in Europe have brought about no progress, Azeri Defence Minister Col. Gen. Safar Abiyev said during a meeting in Baku with the chief of the Turkish general staff, Gen. Of the Army Necdet Ozel. For this reason, Azerbaijan Keeps building up its armed forces for the possible recapture of Nagorno-Karabakh, which is an Armenian-speaking enclave in Azerbaijan, Aliyev said.

The two ministers also discussed military aspects of the overall political situation in the region and Azeri-Turkish military cooperation.

“Azerbaijan’s sovereignty must and will be guaranteed above all occupied lands”

“The territorial integrity of Azerbaijan must be restored, all immigrants must return to their native lands – to Nagorno-Karabakh, as well as Shusha”, - Azerbaijani President Ilham Aliyev said it at the opening ceremony of the new residential village, built in Takhtakorpu in Agjabadi region for 552 displaced families from the Lachin region. “Azerbaijan’s sovereignty should be fully restored. This is required by international law and the Azerbaijani people require this. We now are making diplomatic efforts to get back there. If you see that these efforts fail, then at any time we need military means to recover our lands. International law recognizes this right for us. Just as long as we try to do it by negotiation and, simultaneously, to increase their power. Over the years we have become much stronger. We have created a powerful military capability”, - he said.

Speech by President Ilham Aliyev on the 20th anniversary of the restoration of state independence of the Republic of Azerbaijan

“...The difference in the level of development between Armenia and Azerbaijan has further increased in recent years. A solution of this [Nagorno-Karabakh] conflict is possible only through acceptance of international law. Azerbaijan’s territorial integrity recognized by the international community and the United Nations must be restored. Four UN Security Council resolutions must be implemented unconditionally. The occupying forces must withdraw from our lands.

The territorial integrity and sovereignty of Azerbaijan must be restored. The citizens of Azerbaijan who have suffered from Armenian vandalism, atrocities and the policy of ethnic cleansing must and will return to their native lands. I have no doubt about that. To do this, we must become and are becoming even stronger. In the economic, military and all other areas Azerbaijan’s potential is several times greater than that of Armenia, and it must grow further.

We will continue our diplomatic effort, but at the same time we will use all our opportunities to restore our territorial integrity. Justice is on our side, everybody knows that. No matter how difficult it has been for 20 years and no matter how hard the Armenian lobby has tried, we have declared and shown the world that Nagorno-Karabakh is native and historical Azerbaijani territory, from both historical point of view and from the standpoint of international law. Today, our offensive diplomacy is producing effect. I am sure that this issue will be resolved in line with international law and Azerbaijan will restore its territorial integrity. There are sufficient grounds for that. I occasionally share my thoughts with the Azerbaijani public on this issue. There are sufficient grounds. In addition to the historical and legal factors, the balance of powers is proof of Azerbaijan’s superiority. Economic strength is incomparable. After 20 years of independence, Azerbaijan accounts for 83 per cent of the South Caucasus economy. As a result of the measures to be taken in the future and the upcoming reforms, this figure will only continue to grow, it will not diminish, but grow further.

In addition to economic factors, any country, including Azerbaijan, is taking steps to protect itself. Our growing military spending is a natural process. All our expenses, including the military, are growing. Considering the fact that we have the Karabakh problem, an increase in our expenses is natural. If they did not increase, it would be unnatural. They are and will be growing. The task I set a few years ago is now in the past. I said that our military spending must equal Armenia’s total budget. Today, our military spending is 500 million higher than the Armenian budget. In the future, the difference will further increase.

One of the reasons for my optimism is the demographic situation in the region. The population of Azerbaijan is growing every year, we have over 9.1 million citizens. The population of Armenia is decreasing by the year, and will continue to reduce due to natural processes and because of the hopelessness, unemployment and mass apathy prevailing there. All these and other factors, needless to say, further strengthen our confidence. Most importantly, the people of Azerbaijan will never put up with this situation. The people of Azerbaijan will ensure the existence of Nagorno-Karabakh as an integral part of Azerbaijan."

"Karabakh Conflict Can Be Resolved Peacefully Through Pressure On Armenia"

"Azerbaijan still has a potential of negotiations toward the settlement of Armenian-Azerbaijani conflict. Azerbaijani President stated many times that "If I feel that the potential of negotiations ended and it is held only for the talks, Azerbaijan will deny holding negotiations and will restore its territorial integrity by other means", Head of Public Policy Department of the Presidential Administration of Azerbaijan Ali Hasanov told journalists. He said Azerbaijan couldn't state that this potential ended. "The OSCE Minsk Group co-chairs, as well as other institutions, which participate in the international peacekeeping processes, enable us to think that this problem can be resolved peacefully through the pressure on Armenia".

At the joint press conference with Turkish Prime Minister Recep Tayyip Erdogan, President Ilham Aliyev said actually it shows the aggressive essence of Armenia. "This country is full of problems. Tens of thousands of people leave the country. The country's economy is in crisis – poverty, misery, despair. There is not a good facility in the country, but for the foreign endowments, foreign patronage this country will collapse. In this situation, with 1.8 million real population, they make claims for historical territories of Turkey. They consider that they have solved Nagorno Karabakh problem. They are mistaken. Nagorno Karabakh is Azerbaijan's territory, remains as Azerbaijan's land. The day will come when Azerbaijan will restore its sovereignty over Nagorno Karabakh either peacefully, or in a military way," he said.

Azerbaijan backs Turkey over Cyprus but fears Karabakh impact, says Azeri deputy PM

[...] Armenia just does not understand the fact that God condemned the two Caucasus states to live as neighbors, Hasanov added. "I used to believe back in 2001 that time was with us on the Karabakh issue, but I no longer think that way. The issue is getting deeper as time drags on. Time has worked in our favor only economically speaking, but it is working against us politically," he said. "We always say that if things keep going this way, we could declare war. We would have liked to see Turkey behind us, but there is international law. There is a security agreement between Russia and Armenia," Hasanov added. "Turkey cannot back us [militarily], but of course we see [Turkey] beside us politically. It is not like Turkey will be fighting a war with Russia anyway. Baku is negotiating with Yerevan solely for the sake of negotiating, as Azerbaijan would be labeled an "anti-democratic state" if it did not participate in the meetings, Hasanov said.

Not all Madrid principles meet Azerbaijan's interests – official

'Neither Armenia nor Azerbaijan can present the principles proposed by the Minsk Group co-chairs as a victory. These principles do not envisage victory of any party, they are rather based on mutual concessions'. The statement came from chief of the public policy department of the Presidential Administration of Azerbaijan Ali Hasanov. He said Azerbaijan's concession would be granting an interim status to Nagorno Karabakh. "It means that Azerbaijan would grant an interim status to Nagorno Karabakh before its final definition in normal conditions of peace. President Ilham Aliyev spoke of the renewed Madrid principles at the previous session of the Cabinet of Ministers. The renewed principles consist of four main principles. Certainly, not all of those principles meet Azerbaijan's interests. To meet its interests, Azerbaijan should start war for liberation of occupied lands and force Armenia to sign a treaty satisfactory to Azerbaijan while in current conditions it is impossible. Therefore, we show a constructive position and make mutual concessions", Hasanov said.

Armenia makes military solution to the conflict urgent – MP

"Over the years our army has really become a very powerful force, which is not inferior to the most advanced armies of the world for its technical equipment and combat readiness. Head of state Ilham Aliyev attaches special importance to military construction, and our army has reached such heights due to the expedient policy by the head of state. Moreover, the Azerbaijani people have always supported their own army, and this is a sign of the unity between the army and the people," said Aydin Mirzazade, deputy chairman of the security and defence committee of the Azerbaijani Parliament, the Milli Majlis. Mirzazade noted that though Azerbaijani army can at any moment fulfill its tasks, Azerbaijan is committed to a peaceful way to resolve the conflict. "And the international community wants a solution to the conflict. Aspirations and actions of Azerbaijan in this direction are clear. However, the enemy party still makes groundless territorial claims, does not take a clear commitment to liberate the occupied territories, and it therefore makes military solution to the conflict urgent. Armenia must finally realize that it cannot indefinitely keep the occupied territories of a neighbor. The time works against it," Mirzazade noted.

BAKU (Reuters) - Azerbaijani President Ilham Aliyev, speaking during the biggest military parade in Baku since the fall of the Soviet Union, promised to boost army spending and gain control of the territories disputed with Armenia.

"I am completely sure that our territorial integrity will be resumed in any possible way,

Aliyev was shown on state television as saying at the parade to mark armed forces day. "Therefore, we should be even stronger."

Aliyev said that his country will boost military spending to $3.3 billion this year, up from $2.15 a year ago and just $160 million in 2003. Troops marched across Liberty square in central Baku, along with convoys of infantry combat vehicles and Russia-made S-300 self-propelled anti-aircraft missile launchers. Warplanes, helicopters and drones cruised over the city, as TV aired footage of battleships on duty off the Azeri Caspian coast. "Nagorno-Karabakh is a native Azerbaijani land, this is the way it always was, but it is temporarily under occupation, which cannot last forever," Aliyev said, adding that Baku will continue diplomatic efforts.

Settlement of Karabakh conflict is most important issue for Azerbaijan – President Ilham Aliyev

[...] At present, the Armenian-Azerbaijani Nagorno-Karabakh conflict is the biggest source of threat to the region. Everybody knows that we did not create this threat and Azerbaijani side suffers from this conflict most of all. I am confident that the issue will be resolved and the territorial integrity will be restored. There is no and cannot be any other way to resolve this issue. The Azerbaijani state and people will never allow the establishment of a second Armenian state on Azerbaijani territory. Nagorno Karabakh will never be independent. The people currently living in Nagorno-Karabakh and the Azerbaijanis, who must go back to Nagorno Karabakh, have to live in conditions of autonomy. This is a well-known approach in the world practice and all issues have to be resolved with a status of autonomy within a united Azerbaijan state. Once again I want to say that Azerbaijan will never retreat from this principled position", - Azerbaijani President Ilham Aliyev said.

Zaman: Azerbaijan vows to shot down Armenian planes over Nagorno-Karabakh

Azerbaijan has warned Armenia in a strongly-worded statement that it will not shun in shooting down its planes if the country advances its plans to complete an airport in occupied Azerbaijani territories. Head of Azerbaijani State Civil Aviation Administration, Arif Mammadov, raspigly warned Armenia while speaking to reporters on Wednesday that any airplane taking off from the airport which is under construction in the Nagorno-Karabakh, which is occupied by Armenian military in early 1990s, will be destroyed by Azerbaijani armed forces.

Armenia has occupied Nagorno-Karabakh in early 1990s, predominantly populated by ethnic Armenians, and seven adjacent regions to the disputed territory despite the fact that no Armenian population lived in this provinces. 16 years of mediation by Organization for Security and Cooperation (OSCE) Minsk Group has yielded no results and thus increasing the possibility of military confrontation more than ever. The region has already become a usual showcase of border skirmishes, leaving tens of dead each year from both from Azerbaijan and Armenia. Both sides accuse each other of violating the already vulnerable cease-fire.

“Our airspace over Nagorno-Karabakh is closed and according to Azerbaijani aviation law, it is even legal to destruct the airplanes flying to this part of the country”, Mammadov said. According to Mammadov, dealing with the deterrent measures, Azerbaijan already notified the situation to International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO).

Observers say Azerbaijan fears Armenia could use the airport as a base for military aircrafts during a possible armed confrontation between Armenia and Azerbaijan.

The airspace over Nagorno-Karabakh is closed, as Azerbaijani authority does not control the region after since early 1990s, when the ceasefire agreement was signed with Armenia under the auspices of Russia.

ICAO has already responded to the concerns of Azerbaijan and urged the country to take precautions against any abnormal occurrences in the region.

Azerbaijan State Civil Aviation Administration responded to the ICAO that this time in cooperation with Azerbaijan Defence Ministry, that the airspace is closed and it cannot be used for any purposes. The Azerbaijani officials urged the ICAO to take appropriate measures to prevent the redundant incidents.

Azerbaijan Preparing For War, Says Defense Minister Safar Abiyev

BAKU (Today’s Zaman)—Azerbaijan’s Defense Minister Safar Abiyev told OSCE Minsk Group co-chairmen that his country is seriously preparing for war against Armenia to “liberate its territories from occupation.”

“Azerbaijan is seriously preparing to liberate its territories,” Abiyev reportedly told the co-chairs, the defense ministry’s press release said on Friday.

Abiyev defended his comments by referring to the traditional practice of other countries, saying that every country would act similarly in these situations. In the statement Abiyev emphasized the necessity of implementing current international norms and provided examples of situations in which international law was successfully implemented.

Abiyev also criticized the activities of the Minsk Group and said that while diplomatic overtures of the mediators have not produced any results, Azerbaijan has not yet lost its hope in the group.

Ziyafat Asgarov, the deputy speaker of the Azerbaijani parliament, told reporters in December of last year that Azerbaijan reserves the right to liberate its occupied territories. When asked whether war was on the agenda, Asgarov said, "You will see it very soon."

Novruz Mammadov, the director of the department of foreign relations in the presidential administration of Azerbaijan, told ANS TV channel on Saturday that it is natural for Azerbaijan to intensify its war rhetoric, pointing to the failure of mediators to bring about peace in the conflict.

"The only job of the international community and OSCE Minsk Group is to make Armenia accept the proposals on the table," Mammadov said.

"It is very natural that Azerbaijan increase its military calls because we have been negotiating for many years already. Because the talks have not produced the outcome we want, the Azerbaijani president [Ilham Aliyev] is highlighting the right of Azerbaijani army to liberate our territories and this is only natural," Mammadov concluded.

Closing remarks by Ilham Aliyev at a meeting of the Cabinet of Ministers on the results of socioeconomic development of 2010

In 2011, extensive work will be done in the area of army construction. Overall, our defense expenditure exceeds $3 billion. This is 30 per cent more than Armenia's total budget, which is in the range of $2 billion. I repeat, our military spending alone constitutes $3 billion. Of course, Azerbaijan cannot be compared to Armenia, we are a developing, modern, strong and rich country, while Armenia is in recession, a poor country dependent on foreign aid. The difference between our countries is incomparable, and it will gradually grow further. We can allocate any amount to the military, while Armenia can only provide for itself at the expense of foreign aid. This dependence, of course, manifests itself politically too. I can say that, unlike Armenia, Azerbaijan is completely independent. We have economic, political power and a strong will to conduct an independent policy. As I said earlier, in 2011 we expect to commission new defense industry enterprises. We must try to ensure that the enterprises providing for the needs of our army and military entities are of priority importance. We must try, and we are already succeeding in that, to import the latest military equipment to Azerbaijan.

Speech by Ilham Aliyev at the commissioning of a residential building for Karabakh war veterans and martyrs' families

At the same time, we are strengthening our army. We are paying great attention to army building and allocating large funds. Our army is the most powerful army in the region, and the attention being paid to army building manifests itself. Our lands have been under occupation for many years. We have been subjected to Armenian aggression. In the early 1990s, Armenia and its foreign benefactors took advantage of the instability and chaos in Azerbaijan and seized our lands. Of course, it would be impossible today. Today, Azerbaijan has the most powerful military potential. Our economic, political and military power cannot be compared to that of Armenia. But let me repeat, in the early 1990s Armenian invaders capitalized on the situation in Azerbaijan and occupied our lands.

We are trying to resolve the issue through negotiations. But, as you can see, it hasn't been possible yet. Therefore, of course, we must be prepared for all other options. The purpose in allocating significant resources to army building, taking measures to improve the professionalism of the army, conducting regular exercises, acquiring and producing new weaponry, munitions and technology in Azerbaijan is that if the negotiations prove unsuccessful, then our lands must be liberated by a military option. This is a reality, this is our most difficult problem and it must be resolved.

In the years of ceasefire, Azerbaijan has covered a long and successful road. While in the early 1990s there was relative balance in the economic or military spheres between Armenia and Azerbaijan, today we are well ahead. Azerbaijani economy accounts for 75 per cent in the South Caucasus. The financial capabilities available to us Azerbaijan us to resolve any issue in its favor. The Armenian side, of course, is well aware of this and has to reckon with this reality. It is not by chance that their hysterical actions of recent months have exposed their fear to the whole world. This is a reality, and as long as Azerbaijani lands remain under occupation, Armenia will live in fear. No-one would want a neighbor harboring evil plans. But we have no other choice. If Armenia follows international law and withdraws its forces from Azerbaijani territory, peace and calm will be established in the region. But as long as our lands are under occupation, Armenia and its leaders must know that the Azerbaijani people can at any time conduct a military operation in its own territory. These opportunities are provide for by international law.

With regard to our capabilities, as I have noted, they are growing by the day and will be even greater in the future.

Aliyev at the opening ceremony of a new settlement for IDP families in the region of Agdam

Today again I would like to say it openly that we will continue our army building. We have created already a professional and strong army and purchased weaponry in large quantities. Our Army will act at any moment. We do not want to have war. But, we will never reconcile with this situation. Armenia knows and should know that our patience has also limits. Our patience is not an infinite one.

Aliyev at the farewell at the opening of a compound composed of living mansions constructed for IDP families

Our goal is to restore international law and territorial integrity. Internationally recognized territory integrity of Azerbaijan should be restored. This constitutes our goal. We use and should use various opportunities to hit the target. This is our sovereign right. We want to solve the issue by talks and peace. However, it seems that Armenian side wishes only to delay it and a new stage in negotiation process starts again. We wait for the answer of Armenia related to the proposed issues. If there will be no positive answer, we will make, of course, changes in our policy.

Besides that, it is not a secret that we develop successfully our army building process. Our military might is increasing. Our defense capabilities are strong. Spirit of patriotism and professionalism are at high level. I do not doubt that our Armed Forces can fulfill their task with courage and in a short period of time. I do not doubt that we will restore our territorial integrity. The truth and history demand it that way, and today, the forces balance hints at that stance.

Aliyev at funeral of Azerbaijani soldiers,

Today is a very sad day. At the same time, this day is a glorious one. Mubariz and Farid died for their Motherland on their own soil. Having killed 5 enemy soldiers and wounded 3 of them in an uneven battle, Mubariz Ibrahimov became a martyr. Mubariz knew well that he would not come out of the battle safe and sound. However, his affection to Motherland and love to its soil, as well as his spirit of patriotism elevated him to the martyrdom. Mubariz is a role model for all the youth. [...]

We will not let Armenia to engage in imitation of negotiations. We will keep conducting talks for as much as there remains a hope for restoration of our territorial integrity through negotiations. If we notice that it is not possible, then, the Azerbaijani state will restore its territorial integrity using its military. I do not doubt that we have all the conditions necessary for it - combat preparedness, material and technical supply, sufficient weaponry and ammunitions, professional army, high morale and the will of the Azerbaijani people. We can restore our territorial integrity by military means at any moment. The enemy should know this and they do know that.

President Ilham Aliyev at the opening of a new secondary school

Certainly, Karabakh is an ancient Azerbaijani land. Is there the word 'Karabakh' in Armenia? No! Khankendi in Karabakh was called Stepanakert in the Soviet Times. Where did Stepanakert come from? This name was taken from the name of Stepan Shaumyan. If this city had a historical past, related to Armenians, would they have given this name?! Its historical name is Khankendi. This is the reality. Our children must know this, they should know that present-day Armenia locates in ancient Azerbaijani lands. In addition, they also want to create the second state in our territory. They want to create the second Armenian state on the historical Azerbaijani lands. We can never be able to agree on this and we will restore the territorial integrity of our country. By any way! I do not doubt this! Today Azerbaijan is a strong state. Today Azerbaijan is able to take actions not only in the sphere of education but also in other spheres.

Speech by President Ilham Aliyev at a ceremony to inaugurate the State Flag Square

The opening of the State Flag Square is a truly historic and unforgettable event. This square is a great architectural monument in itself. The upper part of the square covers 3 hectares, while the area of the whole square is 60 hectares. State symbols of Azerbaijan – the national emblem, words of the anthem and the map of the country – are depicted here. There will also be a state flag museum here and in the center of the square there will be Azerbaijan's state flag. This is the biggest and the highest flag in the world. The flagpole is 162 meters high and it can be seen from anywhere in Baku. [...]

The establishment of such a magnificent square in our capital Baku is a truly great event. Our flag is a source of our pride. Our flag is our flesh and our heart. The state flag of Azerbaijan is hoisted in all parts of Azerbaijan. After the restoration of Azerbaijan's territorial integrity, our state flag will be hoisted in the lands still under occupation now. Our state flag will be hoisted in Nagorno-Karabakh, Khankandi and Shusha. We must and we are making this day nearer by our work.

President Aliyev's opening address to the Cabinet to review the first six months of 2010

"We took very important steps in the military industry in 2009. We've been strengthening our military potential. Recently we made changes to our budget, which now stands at $15bn. We allocated an additional $500m to military spending. And this is part of our single-minded policy. We have to focus, first and foremost, on strengthening the country's military potential, and this is what we are doing. Azerbaijan's military spending today is $2.15bn, which is more than the total budget of Armenia. And we've achieved the goal that we set ourselves a few years ago. This allows us to modernize our army and purchase state-of-the-art weapons and military equipment."

Our military power can play a decisive role in the settlement of the Armenian-Azerbaijani conflict over Nagorno-Karabakh. However, we don't want this to happen. We want the issue to be solved through negotiations, through diplomatic means. But military power will strengthen our position.

We must be ready to liberate our occupied lands at any time. And I'm completely confident that Azerbaijan is capable of doing so today. We have considerably increased our military power...

Azerbaijan must make it to the ranks of the developed countries in terms of economic progress, and this is our goal. We are a modern country. This is why the first stage of the war decides nothing. It only proves that the people of Azerbaijan and the Azerbaijani state will never accept this situation and will restore their territorial integrity by any means."

President Ilham Aliyev Tuesday at the inauguration of a center for the “Azeri Community of Nagorno-Karabakh,”

“This is the last chance for Armenia to leave the occupied lands voluntarily for the sake of its own future and its own security.”...

The threat comes two days after Aliyev held talks with Secretary of State Hillary Clinton, who urged both sides to refrain from “use of force or the intention of use of force” to resolve the Nagorno-Karabakh conflict.

In his lengthy remarks, Aliyev said that Azerbaijan had accepted the updated Madrid Principles drafted by the OSCE Minks Group that is mediating the peace process.

He said the time had come for Armenia to adopt the principles, accusing Yerevan of deliberately delaying the process.

The Azeri President said his country’s growing economic and military potential and the strengthening of its position in the international arena will help it restore its territorial integrity.

“Today our army is able to solve any task,” the Azerbaijani President said.

Aliyev confesses, pledges to continue provocations,

“There is cease-fire agreement. But today there are no peacekeeping forces in the region, there are Armenian and Azerbaijani soldiers. The distance between them sometimes makes 40-50 meters. No one can provide guarantees that undesirable incidents will not occur there. How long should Azerbaijani people wait? For how long it should accept this unfairness? It could be explained somehow when there was military balance between Armenia and Azerbaijan. But today there is no such balance. And they are well aware of it,” Azerbaijan’s President Ilham Aliyev said in a statement in Baku Tuesday.

Ilham Aliyev here tried to imply something and give spirit to those under his command, however, willy-nilly he confessed that the incident of June 18-19 night near the village of Chaylu was provoked by “impatient Azerbaijani people”, explaining that “there is lack of military balance.”

Speech by President Ilham Aliyev at a joint battle exercises of the Armed Forces

Dear servicemen!

Let me congratulate you and all the people of Azerbaijan on the forthcoming Day of the Armed Forces and wish you success in your service.

The Azerbaijani army is getting stronger by the day. The process of army construction in Azerbaijan is progressing well, which enables us to build up our military power. Army construction is a very important issue for any country. Of course, for a country at war it must be a priority. And it is – army construction in Azerbaijan is top priority. We have been suffering from aggression for many years, our lands are under occupation. We must be prepared to free our native lands from occupiers at any moment. To do that, along with political and diplomatic efforts, we must have a strong army, and this process is successfully under way. The level of the Azerbaijani army is very high today.

The professionalism and combat-readiness of our army are growing, the morale is high. At the same time, our military infrastructure is strengthening, and major steps have been taken in this direction in recent years. The state allocates sufficient funds to address the needs of our army. Let's just look at one figure: in the last several years, to be exact, in the last seven years our military expenditure increased more than 13 times. Azerbaijan's military expenditure for 2010 is $2,150 billion, which exceeds Armenia's total budget. Several years ago we set a goal: Azerbaijan's military expenses must exceed Armenia's total expenditure. And this goal has already been made. We will continue to build up our military power and purchase the required arms, ammunition and hardware.

Additional steps will be taken in Azerbaijan in the area of military production. A lot of attention has been paid to this sphere lately. At present, there are 21 military enterprises, a military plant in Azerbaijan, 30 manufacturing facilities have been set up. We must ensure that all the hardware, arms and ammunition required for the armed forces are produced in Azerbaijan. We will further step up work in this direction. Of course, to do that financial resources and economic power are required, and we are working on that. [...]

The financial crisis which hit the world in 2009-2010 has almost bypassed Azerbaijan because the steps we have taken saved our country and population from its bitter implications. Azerbaijan is optimistic of the future and is stepping up its military power. I have no doubt that we will meet our economic, social and political goals. Our goals are to further strengthen our independence, conduct an independent policy and solve the tasks our country is facing. The most important of them is the liberation of our lands from occupiers. As you may know, talks between Azerbaijan and Armenia have been under way for years. Mediators are also playing a role in the talks. Despite this, the issue remains unresolved although there are decisions and resolutions of international organizations supporting our position, the position of justice. Practically all leading international organizations have passed decisions on the issue, but the occupying state ignores them. Under such circumstances Azerbaijan has two choices: either to continue the talks – we are ready for that provided that the talks will yield fruit, or choose another way. We must be prepared for any option, which is confirmed by the numerous statements I have made in the last several years.

We have never rejected a military option although we are in favor of peace talks. The talks have been under way for 20 years and Azerbaijan is demonstrating a constructive approach. But there is no result. How long should the people of Azerbaijan wait? How long should we wait for justice to be restored? The Armenian side ignores the norms of international law and flouts the decisions of international organizations. The patience of the Azerbaijani people is not unlimited.

In recent years we have been attaching special importance to army construction, and the figures I have provided here are only a small fraction of the work we are doing. Our key objective is to restore our territorial integrity by all means.

Let me repeat: we want to resolve the issue through talks. But if that proves impossible, the Azerbaijani army, all the armed forces must be ready to liberate our lands on the order of the commander-in-chief.

We don't have claims on other countries' lands although the present-day Republic of Armenia was founded on historically Azerbaijani lands. We must restore the territorial integrity of our own country. This is our natural right. The most fundamental human rights of one million Azerbaijani citizens have been breached. Azerbaijanis have been subjected to ethnic cleansing. Hundreds thousands of our citizens have been driven out of Upper Qarabag and adjacent districts. How long should we tolerate that? [...]

We must step up our military power, and we are doing that. Today the Azerbaijani army is prepared to fulfill all the tasks with dignity. I want to reiterate: combat-readiness, professionalism, patriotic spirit, military infrastructure, state attention and respect for the army – all these factors will enable us to free our lands from occupiers....

Today's exercises have demonstrated the power of the Azerbaijani army and armed forces again. The exercises have been held jointly by the Defense Ministry, Interior Troops and Border Troops, and we will rise to fight for the motherland, for our lands together. All the people of Azerbaijan will be mobilized. All the armed forces will be mobilized. With this aim the armed forces will coordinate their activities. The key objective of the exercises is to liberate our lands from occupiers. The exercises have been very successful. Of course, they will be thoroughly analyzed. It will take some time. But the first impression is very positive. I can also see that all the tasks have been fulfilled and our armed forces have displayed great professionalism.

President Ilham Aliyev holds military build-up meeting

Today's meeting is of great significance. It is no secret that along with other spheres Azerbaijan places a particular emphasis on its military. It is our only approach since Azerbaijan is at war. The war is not over. The first phase of war was just completed. We must do it so that we could liberate our lands by military means at any moment

Military spending has increased ten-fold over the past 5-6 years, defense industry is developing, military equipment has been bought because it is our natural right... Today, Azerbaijan's army is stronger and more professional than Armenian army in all fields.

Aliyev during festivities to mark the Novruz holiday

The territorial integrity of Azerbaijan has never been a subject of discussion. The territorial integrity of Azerbaijan must be restored. The occupying troops must be withdrawn from all the occupied lands and the Azerbaijani citizens must return there. All communications must open. Azerbaijanis must return to Nagorno-Karabakh and Armenians and Azerbaijanis must live in conditions of high autonomy. The future that can happen either tomorrow or in a hundred years or may never happen will show the nature of this status. This means that the independence of Nagorno-Karabakh outside Azerbaijan is absolutely unacceptable. This is our position of principle. Nagorno-Karabakh will never be independent. Azerbaijan will never recognize it. The world community will also not recognize a formation that has not been recognized by us.

I think today there are good opportunities for the resolution of the issue. Azerbaijan will intensify diplomatic efforts, it takes a constructive position during negotiations and at the same time it uses its potential to grow in strength. This consolidation is observed in the economic, political and military sphere. We do not conceal it. We live in conditions of war. It is not by accident that a greater part of our state expenditure goes on defence. This is natural. There will be no need for large defence costs after the Karabakh conflict is settled. But today there is a great need for it. We will raise our defence costs every year, strengthen the army, purchase new arms and ensure that the armed forces of Azerbaijan could fulfil the order of the supreme commander within a short period of time, and at any minute. This is our sovereign right and we do not need advisers in this issue.

Aliyev interview with Euronews

Euronews: You've been quoted as saying that if the Armenian side does not withdraw its troops from the seven occupied territories of Azerbaijan and return this land, then Azerbaijan would take those provinces back through a military offensive. Do you maintain this position?

Aliyev: This is a fundamental right of Azerbaijan, as I mentioned before, given to us by international organizations, including the United Nations. We cannot afford the conflict to be in such a frozen situation for another 15 years.

Euronews: It has already been frozen for 16 years...

Aliyev: Of course, so there should be an end to that. We want to put an end to that by peaceful means, and we are working on that, but at the same time, our patience also has limits. I hope that what has been agreed basically before and what we are planning to agree during 2010 will put an end to conflict and peace will come to the Caucasus.

Azerbaijani President calls 'to attack Armenia in all directions

"Azerbaijan will exert pressure on Armenia unless the seized lands are liberated," Azerbaijani President Ilham Aliyev said when addressing today the graduates of the Supreme Military School.

"Azerbaijan must attack Armenia in all directions. The attack must be political, economic and diplomatic," he said.

"Nagorno Karabakh will never join Armenia and will never be independent," he said.

"Yerevan drags out time hoping for success. In my opinion, this wish is conditioned by career ambitions of some politicians. I do not believe that Armenia is interested in protracting the settlement process," Aliyev said.

Noting the necessity of creation of a military-industrial multiplex, Aliyev said that in the end of the year Azerbaijan will launch its first military output. "War is not over and Azerbaijan will strengthen its army," he said reminding that his country's military budget is equal to Armenia's state budget.
